Play'n GO Releases Bounty Hunter and Pai Gow!

Play'n GO proudly announces the release of its upgraded instant-play casino software, Casino 1.7. The latest upgrade includes two attractive new casino games. The Bounty Hunter slot game and Pai Gow Poker are sure to thrill an international gaming audience.

Saddle up! It's time to reel in the rewards in Bounty Hunter, a 5-reel, 25-line slot game with bandits, bounty hunters, and barmaids reminiscent of the Old West. The rugged-looking bounty hunter serves as a wild symbol, helping you to comprise prize-winning combinations. At least two white stallions anywhere on the reels gives you a prize equal to double your total bet; three triple your bet; four quadruple it; and so on. Bounty Hunter includes no less than three exciting bonus rounds that enable you to shoot at barrels, booze bottles and even barefaced bandits. The good, the bad and the ugly are bound to love Bounty Hunter from Play'n GO!

The table game of Pai Gow Poker was invented in the U.S. in the 1980s and has since become a worldwide hit! Pai Gow Poker pits you against the dealer. Your objective is to use your seven dealt cards to form a five-card hand plus a two-card hand that will outrank the dealer's two hands. If you should get stuck arranging your hands, don't worry; the game will automatically form hands for you according to the "House Way".

To reach new customer groups throughout Europe and beyond, Play'n GO's instant-play casino software is now ready to play in a total of eight different languages, five of which are newly added: Italian, French, Latvian, Russian, Hungarian, Swedish, German and English. "When it comes to our software, we've made the language translation process as trouble-free as possible, so developing new language versions of our software is a breeze," says Johan Törnqvist, Play'n GO CEO. "Our clients realize the tremendous market advantage in offering games and instructions to their customers in their native languages."
